Benjamin Weitzmann

Having studied the piano from an early age, Fr Benjamin took up the organ at the age of thirteen, studying at the Merchant Taylors' School under Richard Hobson. Whilst reading Management at the University of Surrey, Benjamin became involved with the music at Guildford Cathedral, accompanying the weekly University Service as well as covering occasional Choral Evensong with the Cathedral Choir.

In 2001 Benjamin succeeded Stephen Lloyd as Organist and Choirmaster of All Saints', Croxley Green, a post that he held until 2012 when he went up to Oxford to read theology in preparation for ordination, whereupon he became Organist and Director of Music at St Stephen's House for two years, enjoying the opportunities presented by working with a professional choir.

After becoming Curate of Boxmoor in 2015, Benjamin continued to play the organ at various London churches, as well as singing counter tenor. He has a particular interest in the theatre organ, regularly accompanying silent movies, and was privileged to play the organ at the Odeon Leicester Square.

Now Vicar of two churches in Portsmouth, Benjamin is a Patron of Music at St John's and continues his association with Hemel Hempstead Theatre Company as Musical Director where he is now working on the forthcoming Christmas Pantomime 'Jack and the Beanstalk', to add to the long list of previous shows.
